BACK-STAGE by bill doll

"The Star Wagon" with its nine scene changes is the largest production ever to be attempted at Ivoryton . . . In it Milton Stiefel has his first chance to star Joseph Pevney, who has been one of Ivoryton's most popular favorites for the past two years . . . Jordan Luhr holds a pilot's license and used to fly the mail . . . Christine Maple was one of Florenz Ziegfeld's last discoveries and was 'glorified' in his last "Follies". . . Frank McNellis just learned that he was appearing in two theatres in this neighborhood last week. While playing here in person he was also being seen on the screen at the Saybrook Theatre . . . Judie Parrish, playing a small role this week, will be back in the limelight in our next show . . . Our girls made quite a hit in the parade at Middletown last Saturday, and those bathing suits came in mighty handy in the rain . . . Ray Parker, who played here last season, had a part in the Broadway production of "The Star Wagon." Ray is now in Hollywood working for Universal and playing opposite Dixie Dunbar in a series of college movies. Edwin Rand, here earlier this year, is in the same series . . . Another Big Show next week. "Stage Door" with a cast of forty and presented exactly as it was on Broadway in the George Kaufman-Edna Ferber version.
